MCDONALD'S MOVES TO HELP MIGRANTS
 The fast-food giant is asking companies to donate advertising space to the United Nations' food program. PAGE 18

Most of those attacks have focused on espionage and theft of intellectual property. The rules under discussion would have done nothing to stop the theft of 22 million personal security files from the Office of Personnel Management, which the director of national intelligence, James R. Clapper Jr., recently told Congress did not constitute an "attack" because it was intelligence collection something the United States does, too.
